

CRISIS/INCIDENT RESPONSE MANUAL

Last update: May 15 2024

A CRISIS is “an unstable or crucial time or state of affairs, an emotionally significant event, a radical change of status in a person’s life, or a serious endangerment to property”. Declaring a crisis, or often referred to as an 'Incident' that would trigger our Incident Command System as described below typically involves an incident falling into one or more of the following categories:

1. Life at risk
2. Property at risk
3. Esteem/reputation at risk
4. Legal risk

Examples of a crisis at camp include (but are not limited to):

- A death or fatal accident (eg vehicle, drowning)
- An event resulting in multiple-person injuries
- A missing camper involving the police
- A major fire
- A natural disaster
- Food poisoning involving large numbers
- A serious wild animal attack
- A sexual attack involving child welfare authorities
- An outbreak or pandemic related illness on site

It is highly likely that when a crisis occurs at camp, outsiders and government agencies will become involved, e.g. police, fire department, Health Unit, EMS, hospital, Search and Rescue teams, insurance company, CAS, and court system. Once the crisis becomes public, the media is likely to get involved.

For complaints or concerns that are not crisis, please see Appendix 'A'.

Camps are required to contact the OCA office when a crisis as described above occurs and Camp Northland will do so through the Camp Director or its designate. It is expected that the OCA will deploy its crisis response resources once notified. Similarly, the Foundation for Jewish Camps has made itself available to help guide crisis communications as of summer 2024.

All declared 'incidents' MUST be communicated to the any Camp Director(s) [including if a Director is off-site], the Board Chair [currently Garry Wise 416.884.1800], and our insurance Broker currently [Nancy Brown@ajg.com], and PIO/PR rep if warranted. The first priority is protection of life. Communication may not be immediate but is expected to occur at the first reasonable opportunity once protection of life has been secured, but in any event no later than 24 hours from when identified.

OCA Emergency Phone Numbers:

- Cell: 416-708-8131 or try 416-485-0425 below
- Office Line: 416-485-0425 or 1-844-485-0425

This plan is to be distributed to everyone on the Crisis Response Team electronically. It should be made accessible on each person's phone for reference in the event of separation. Hard copies will also be readily available on site and in our crisis kits/backpacks.

PHASE 1 – PREPARATIONS BEFORE THE SUMMER

1. Reread this Crisis Response Manual and update where necessary.

Camp Northland has a commitment from local camp colleagues and other resources to respond quickly to a call for help. Helpers for this year will be:

- Jeff Rose of Camp George: 416-799-0911 or
- Sol Birenbaum of Camp Walden: 613-758-1263 [confirmed]; or
- Regional What's App Group of Directors - Confirmed
- Ellen Nash the former Camp Director of Camp Northland: 416-223-5544 [confirmed] or cell phone 416-948-0527 [confirmed]; or
- Adam Kronick of Camp White Pine: adam@campwhitepine.com [confirmed] or office phone number (best number): 705-457-2131 [confirmed]; or cell phone (only late night): 416-529-6592 [confirmed].

2. Train all staff in First Aid and CPR (or confirm previous training), in camp risk management and emergency procedures, and general safety procedures. This can be accomplished or augmented during pre-camp training and use of staff manuals.

3. Review previous completed Emergency Services Documents and Support Services (fire plan, Safety Plan, etc.) forms, and situational guidelines (bomb threat, suspicious person, etc.) and update where necessary, and train staff accordingly. These should be readily available at Incident Command posts. Maintain these forms and information in easily accessible locations and available for quick referral when required.

4. Set aside 3 days of food and water for camp population in back room of kitchen that is labeled and not touched for any reason except if needed during an incident at direction of Incident Commander. Have an emergency response kit planted here as well.

5. Build good will and strong relations with neighbors, Sir Sams (both), and neighboring camps. Identify and train to in camp/out of camp muster points.

6. Post directions to the camp site at every outbound phone location in camp so that emergency services can be speedily secured. Ensure that out-trip leaders are aware of access roads/routes to direct emergency services to a trip site. Review this procedure with the Head of Trip and Trip Counsellors in order to provide appropriate training for all out-of-camp trip staff. Trip leaders carry 'SPOT' GPS tracking devices or an acceptable alternative communication device for wilderness out-trips that leave our property eg. Satt phones. Trip leaders are trained in the use and check-in expectations which are reinforced in the pre-trip meeting that takes place prior to any off site wilderness trip.

7. Designate a Crisis Headquarters with the following requirements:

- Away from the regular traffic flow of campers and staff to ensure privacy
- Close to the office and information in files
- Accessible 24 hours
- Phone available

Crisis Headquarters for Camp Northland-B'nai Brith shall be the Camp Director's Office inside the Main office, or behind office if outside location is warranted.

8. Prepare 5-7 Crisis Knapsacks:

- Camp Director
- Crisis Headquarters
- Out-of-camp trips
- Back room of kitchen with food and water supplies

- Mobilized in camp (swim sheds, muster sites)

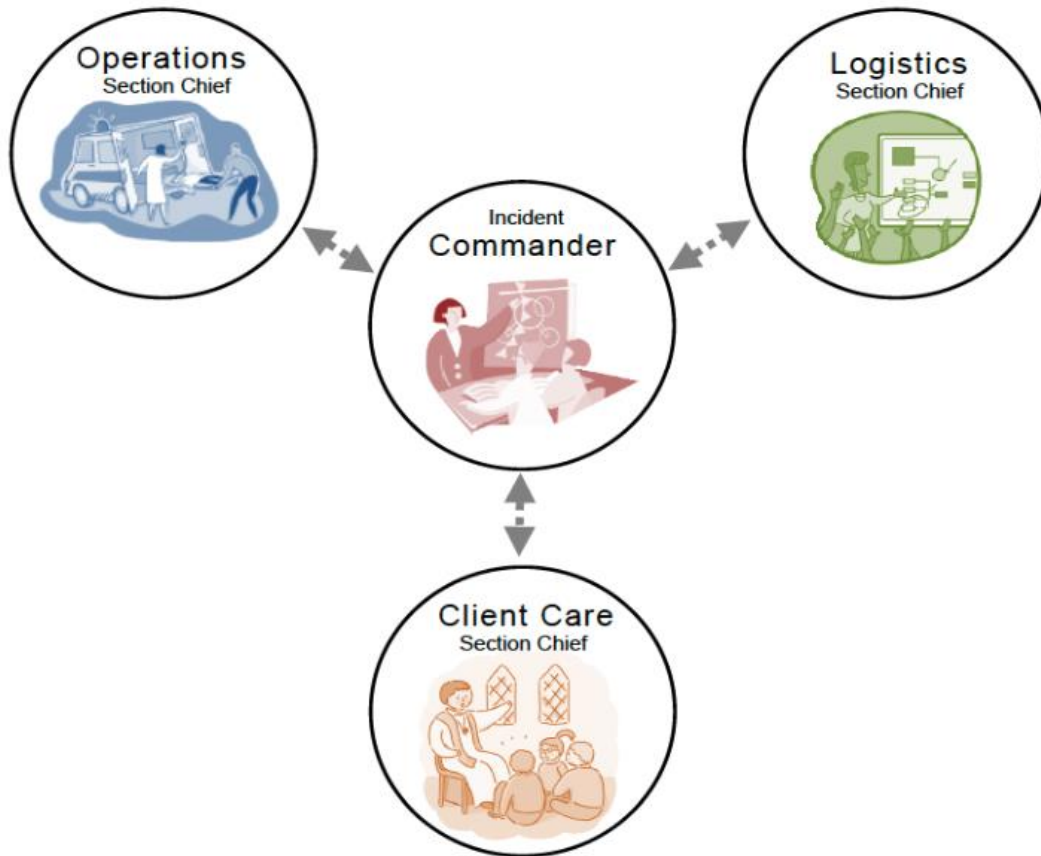

Each knapsack (on site) should contain at a minimum:

- a flashlight
- a copy of the crisis response materials described above
- two pens or pencils
- a clipboard with a master file of camper and staff names, where they live at camp, and their emergency contact numbers.
- Situational Guidelines
- Consider muster bag contents from Security Planning Guide – Appendix B
- Make sure all documents in Appendix B are available
- Ensure these are updated at session changes at a minimum.

- Alternative on-site crisis response headquarters will be Camp Director’s cabin, or his porch if outside location is warranted.
- Off-site if needed to be coordinated with neighbours, Sir Sams or Camp Whitepine.

9. Create a Crisis/Incident Response Team, i.e. a group of individuals who are designated in advance by the Camp Director to respond immediately to a crisis. The individuals are chosen for their maturity, experience, skills, availability, and ability to remain calm and act efficiently and effectively in emergency situations. Post the names of the team with their major responsibilities in the camp office and crisis headquarters.

Our Crisis response team will form in the context of our Incident Command System [ICM]. The Camp Director or one or more Directors in his absence will be the Incident Commander. All seasonal Directing team members will join the response team. Our ICM System format:

Their task in a crisis is to:

- i. Meet immediately; [Remember ‘to go slow to go fast’ as a principle] Prepare white Board – name the incident, give key details, and write basic key info on Board so late comers have quick point of reference. PUT INCIDENT IN PROGRESS sign on door. – Do not disturb (unless info to help solve crisis).
- ii. APPOINT A SCRIBE – will spend all day next to IC – note all times, issues, details, calls, communications, etc. Consider Leore, Daniela, Spencer Wolle, Michelle,
- iii. Assess the situation; First hand reports go direct to Incident Commander (IC)
- iv. An ADVANCE TEAM should be deployed to get first hand reports and assist in any immediate and pressing needs. (Rob, Ashley, S/U Heads, wellness, medical)
- v. Section Chiefs and teams are assigned, reports must come back to IC.
- vi. Mobilize individuals with specific tasks (see #10 below); Call 9-1-1 if needed
- vii. Receive and evaluate information; List ‘fallen dominoes – what else is or could be impacted and how do we have to address these as well; what are the possible outcomes that each Section Chief is trying to solve – then they should make their plan and get it done and report back. (first round 5 minutes or less)
- viii. Continue to monitor the crisis [mid-incident meeting(s) as needed] and make decisions regarding both the crisis and normal camp operations;
- ix. Debrief;
- x. Once main incident is resolved, consider additional dominoes and possible outcomes to be addressed.
- xi. Compile reports; get final status report from each Section Chief (each and every domino/outcome closed properly), must include any next steps and lessons learned.

The Crisis Response Team, and/or each Section Chief, shall be made up of one or more of the following people as assigned by The Incident Commander based on the actual incident situation, primary placement, and dynamics:

Incident Commander: IC does not leave his or her post and makes all relevant decisions based on reports. Simon Wolle or his designate. May include Adam Kertesz, Daniela Aptowitzer, Ashley Zaretsky. Direct Liaise with the Board of Directors, Directors, insurance, media, and Crisis Support Team as needed.

Operations: This group solves the problem i.e. lead the search, put out the fire if safe to do so, move people to safe locations, manage the evacuation, etc. This may include any seasonal Section or Unit head or Specialty Head. Leads to consider include Adam, Ashley (any doctor or nurse), Leore, Stacia, Andrea Glube, Josh Stein, Dianna, Lauren Ptasznik, Karli Feldman, Drew Kravetz, Kira Herr.

Logistics: This group procures all of the supplies and the people to meet any identified need by the other section Chiefs. This could be any specialty head. Possible leads could include Josh Akum, Adam, Kyle Nathan, Tyler or Ethan Goldfarb, Gabi Cohen, Will Flomen, Spencer Wolle, Jesse E., Becca, Stacia, Josh Stein, Andrea Glube.

Client Care: This group is in charge of kids, staff and camp operation during the incident. The Section Chief effectively becomes the Camp Director looking after all camper and staff needs, as well as determining anyone who may be connected to the incident at a personal level eg. Family and addressing their needs directly. May include any member of the full-time Directing team, Daniela, Sarah, Noah W., Jacob Wise, Kyle Nathan, Josh Stein, Alyssa Westerich, Becca, Gabi, and Section or Unit Head or Head Staff.

Public Information Officer (PIO): This only becomes relevant when the incident is significant enough to warrant outside assistance with communication management. This group will monitor all news and media; draft any emails, talking points, social media posts, etc. that may be warranted (all for IC approvals); manage external press and people and helping to organize or stage them as may be required. Note that all actual communication must still be approved by IC without exception. IC (or his or her specific designate) is the only person that actually speaks to the press. Consider Amy Laski, Rachel Evans, Ashley.

In dealing with media, consider the following:

* Commander must approve all communications before releasing

- Facts, not opinions or speculations, will be communicated
- One person speaks for the agency
- Use the same language everywhere
- Be prepared, choose 1-3 talking points and repeat them
- Choose the right medium for each audience (Phone call, Email, Social, Press Release, etc)

10. Pre-identify a Crisis/Incident Support Team. This team shall include: a lawyer, insurance agent, insurance adjuster, medical doctor, JF&CS (for support with psychologist, psychiatrist, grief counsellor), clergy, professional counsellor, and member of the Board of Directors of The Jewish Camp Council of Toronto.

The Crisis Support Team shall include:

Overlapping assignments will default to the most appropriate person/team in the circumstances.

11. Prepare Crisis/Incident Response Clipboards or Binders and store with pen attached in Crisis Headquarters (Incident Command Post(s)). List of possible steps/duties:

- Make emergency phone calls
- Determine which members of the Crisis Support Team are needed. Make contact, gather the team. Designate a back-up person for the Camp Director.
- Meet the emergency services and direct them to the crisis location if appropriate and safe
- Control the crowd. Monitor the road into camp in order to record all those coming in and out (eg parents, emergency services, media) and prevent access to others
- Call the Chairman/President of the Board or other superiors
- Call parents/guardians
- Take pictures
- Designate a single spokesperson and keep him/her informed. Prepare, review and finalize dialogues/messaging responses to be used when contacting or talking to parents/guardians and others. Prepare a media statement to be ready to respond to media queries should they come in
- Assemble the Head Staff and communicate information to them
- Cover the phone lines to monitor outgoing calls (eg staff and campers may call home on a cell phone in a panic situation and not get the story right)
- If the crisis is of a physical or environmental nature make appropriate contacts
- If the crisis is of a social/sexual nature implement the camp's policies and procedures
- If there is damage to the site, to the best of your ability secure the property from further damage and report this to your broker or insurer. Do not make substantial repairs without their authorization
- Provide accommodation and professional counseling to staff and campers who have been traumatized
- Fill out an accident/incident report form
- Collect and file all written information
- Notify insurance company and legal team as required
- Implement any changes to policies and procedures if required
- Continue to check the status of those involved in the crisis event
- Continue to re-evaluate information and deal with follow-up where required

12. Attach several copies of Crisis/Incident Response Log to the clipboard. Instruct all members of the Crisis Response Team to record all pertinent information on the log sheet e.g. names of witnesses, dates and times, events surrounding the crisis, victim's ongoing condition, who each member called and when, conversations the members had with the emergency services, other staff or campers, etc.

Several copies of this log should be kept by all phones in order to record any telephone contacts.

13. Train staff in Crisis/Incident Response Plan. Inform them about the membership of the Crisis Response Team and steps in handling a crisis. Educate them about reporting a crisis, caring for campers in a crisis situation, and appropriate communication with others about the crisis.

14. The Crisis/Incident Response Team may need the help of a Camp/Incident Response Team i.e. other members of the staff needed to perform a specific task e.g. greeting the press as they arrive, securing the camp entrance to allow access only those who need to be on the site. These individuals should be approached before the season so that the specific responsibility they are being asked to assume can be fully explained and they can agree to assume these roles. This would be determined and procured by the Logistics Chief and Section, and will often include Supervisory/head staff members.

15. Review (and modify if necessary) the Accident/Incident Report form.
16. Prepare for possible contact with the media. Write a statement including brief history of the camp and a short description of the camp's programs and facilities, to be used as a lead-in to information about the crisis. This will be reviewed and modified by the PIO, and approved by the IC before release.

Camp Northland-B'nai Brith has been in operation for more than 115 years, under the dedicated guidance of a knowledgeable Board of Directors which reviews all operations on a continuous basis. It has been operating at the site in Haliburton since 1944, and has been in general operation since 1909. Over its long history, the camp has operated with a philosophy of attention to the safety and well-being of its campers and staff. In order to provide a caring and safe environment, all staff are trained in emergency procedures, and applicable first-aid measures relative to their position amongst the general staff and camp needs. The camp facility and all equipment are constantly checked and maintained in order to meet the most stringent requirements of safety. The camp is an accredited member of the Ontario Camps Association, and adheres fully to all procedures recommended by the Association as best practices for a children's summer camp. The current on-site Director of the camp is Simon Wolle, who has extensive experience in Advanced Emergency Medical Care and response, policy and procedure development and staff training.

Contact local media services and develop a liaison person(s) lined up in case a media statement is needed. [Note additional communication templates in Appendix C].

Camp Northland may also choose to use CIJA: 416-925-7499;

PHASE 2 – MANAGING THE CRISIS (THE EMERGENCY RESPONSE PHASE)

The first step is to stabilize the accident or incident. The basic procedures outlined here are to minimize confusion and effectively manage the situation during the first hours of an emergency. Each Section Chief fulfills the mandate of their Sections responsibility. This is a check and balance to make sure these baselines are being managed appropriately.

1. Attend to the victim(s). Where there is a physical injury, to avoid further injury, only staff members who are trained in emergency medical procedures should deal with the victim(s), or attempt any form of preliminary treatment unless the safety of the victim(s) or others is threatened without immediate action; First priority is always life.
2. In the case of injury or disaster, call for emergency/medical assistance (activate 9-1-1). The person who discovers the emergency must immediately report to the office that there has been an emergency. This can be accomplished by use of walkie-talkie or sending a person directly to the office. Report the type and location of the emergency. Give only confirmed details of the situation;
3. Update emergency services with any relevant information including change in status/conditions;
4. Wait at the scene until the emergency personnel arrive;
5. Secure the safety of all surrounding individuals, staff, and campers;
6. If the incident happens away from the main campsite, use the Incident Information Log to collect information.

PHASE 3 – MOBILIZING THE CRISIS TEAM AND COLLECTION OF INFORMATION

Steps taken once the crisis has occurred and has been reported to the office:

1. Notify the Camp Director;
2. Assess the level of the crisis and who is needed;
3. Notify the Crisis/ Incident Response Team Leader who then mobilizes the Crisis/Incident Response Team; Determine if this will be declared an 'Incident' and if so deploy the ICM system.
4. Meet immediately at Crisis Headquarters/ Incident Command Post;
5. Coordinate available information;
6. Confirm tasks to be performed by members of the Crisis Response Team. Use your pre-arranged clipboard;
7. Some tasks may be assigned to the Camp Response Team;
8. Perform the duties assigned and collect as much information as possible.

All persons assigned duties may or may not be part of the Crisis Response Team. However, all actions and reports must be submitted to the Crisis Response Team.

PHASE 4 – COMMUNICATION OF INFORMATION

It is important to remember that each person who observes an incident sees that incident from his/her own unique perspective. However, it is not until all of the facts and the perspective of all those who observed the incident have been gathered and analyzed by the Crisis Response Team, and in particular the Incident Commander, that a final conclusion can be drawn. Any report by an individual is incomplete and may be erroneous until that time. It is for that reason that the Crisis Response Team should designate one individual who will provide all communication and will be the spokesperson.

Communication with Staff

1. Communicate the essential facts of the incident to all staff. A full staff meeting may be called, or section meetings may be used;
2. Review the role of staff immediately following the crisis:
 - Maintain normal camp routines
 - Escort any strangers to the office
 - Be sensitive to camper behaviour regarding the incident;

Emphasize that no one speaks on behalf of the organization (including all social media) except the designated spokesperson – determined by the IC.

3. Keep staff informed (condition of injured person, parent/guardian arrival, media visit, police investigation, etc).

Communication with Campers

The Crisis Response Team should review the situation carefully and decide which campers need to be informed. Communication with campers depends on their closeness to the incident or relationship to the persons involved in the incident. If campers observed the incident, they need to be reassured that appropriate action has been taken and, when appropriate, given an update on the people involved. If the incident happened away from the main site, campers can be informed at a later time.

Some things that should be kept in mind are:

- Who was involved with the incident and how are they affected?
- What do the cabinmates need to know?
- Are there any family members attending camp? Remember that these family members will also be talking to their cabinmates.

Communication with Parents/Guardians

This is the most crucial of the immediate follow-up procedures after a serious injury or fatal accident and also the most distressing both to contemplate and to do. The Camp Director is the best person to make this notification. If he is not available or able to, assign the next best person for this job. The following are suggested steps to take:

1. Compose notes;

First, write down what must be said. Sensitivity to the feelings of the family is the foremost consideration. Think through everything to be said before contact is made. Facts should be accurate and organized. Convey personal condolences that might be appropriate. Remember that the initial notification will be received with surprise and shock. Don't expect to convey many details until a follow-up call. Give only confirmed details and answer any questions with facts and not with opinions. Be conscious of the timing of the call; think about what the recipient might be doing at that time (work, home, sleeping).

2. Call the parents/guardians of the person(s) involved in the incident; Place phone calls directly to the parents/guardians of those who were affected by the crisis. Always use the prepared notes and try to anticipate questions. Remember that promptness is a consideration and delays will certainly lead to suspicion or other bad feelings.

3. Complete the Parent/Guardian Call Form;

This form should record the conversation, the date, and the time. Keep this form in the files. Other suggestions:

- Make arrangements for parents/guardians to travel to camp or to hospital and for their accommodation once they arrive.
- Consider having a camp representative visit the home and/or meet them at the hospital.

Communication with Media

It is important to treat this communication carefully. First, decide whether or not proactive communication is required, or if it is best to respond to incoming inquiries only. Provide only the facts and no opinions. A prepared statement is suggested so as to diminish the possibility of “slipping up” or giving incorrect information surrounding the crisis. The following are suggestions for preparing a media statement and speaking to the media.

1. Media Statement: As indicated above, through PIO, or templates in Appendix C;
2. Designate a spokesperson (Simon Wolle, with support from PIO and/or CIJA). This person could be the Director or Chairman of the Board. The designate could also be another Camp Director, doctor, safety expert or other designate who will be able to offer an objective perspective. Ensure that the spokesperson is part of preparing the media statement;

The Camp Northland spokesperson is Simon Wolle, in conjunction with support from Amy Laski and/or CIJA, and/or medical personnel, or other designates as deemed necessary.

3. The designated spokesperson is the only person to talk to the media. This should be made absolutely clear to the staff. He/she should consult with legal counsel before communicating with the media;
4. Staff and Directors will refer all inquiries to the spokesperson;
5. The spokesperson may provide some or all of the facts, but only facts. Where information is withheld, explain why, i.e. individual(s) is a minor, next-of-kin have not yet been notified. Withholding the names of the victims pending notification of next-of-kin is appropriate and will be respected by the press. However, do not deny that the incident has occurred. Make certain that all media and reporters have equal access to information;
6. No one, including the spokesperson, will release any information that identifies responsibility for an accident without first consulting legal counsel. Specific problems arise when:
 - Assessment of fault or criticism of conduct, policy, or equipment is made public without a full explanation of the circumstances of the accident developed through the complete camp investigation process
 - Information regarding the nature of the injury or illness is released prior to diagnosis by a licensed physician
 - Names of victims are revealed prior to notification of next-of-kin, or
 - Estimates of property damage are released.

Dealing with the media is not an exact process. The camp should use the appropriate members of the Support Team (lawyer, CIJA, insurance agent, etc.) to establish an approach that will be most effective for the camp when dealing with the media.

Always be brief, factual, and honest. Don't engage in supposition or assign blame.

Set up media monitoring, which can be done by setting up “Google News Alerts” for keywords relevant to the incident. Set notifications to “as it happens.”

Log all media coverage associated with the incident.

PHASE 5 – FOLLOW UP AND SUPPORT

Once the immediate crisis has been dealt with, there is still much work to do.

1. Continued Assessment/Intervention

- i. Make periodic status checks of those directly and indirectly involved, as well as members of the Crisis response Team;
- ii. Assess supplies;
- iii. Consider continuation or revision of the Crisis Response Plan so that appropriate interventions can be made;
- iv. Check in with those who have left camp.

After the crisis is over, it is important to complete the paperwork. Record the conversations with all those involved in the crisis as well as the details of the events themselves. In completing this task, consider the following:

2. Files and Reports

- i. Files should be complete and organized;
- ii. Keep copies of all records;
- iii. Reports (in consultation with legal counsel and insurance representative):
 - a. Should be factual in content and contain everything that happened + how you and the camp community responded
 - b. Should be a record of the occurrence without editorial comments
 - c. Should not be released to anyone unless authorized by you
- iv. File appropriate forms/claims
 - a. Camp medical/accident insurance
 - b. Workers compensation
 - c. Camp liability insurance
 - d. Children's Aid Society/JF&CS
 - e. Other local and provincial agencies

3. Support for the Camp Directors(s) and Crisis Response Team

In Camp Support:

- Spend time with staff, campers
- Engage in regular physical exercise
- Take time for relaxation
- Enjoy daily routines, activities, the week's schedule
- Participate in special events
- Treat yourself with kindness
- Be aware of, appreciate, and generate humour

Outside Support:

- Maintain contact with the outside world
- Plan for time away from camp or some "free time"
- Maintain contact with personal friends
- FIND SOMEONE WITH WHOM YOU CAN TALK

Camp Northland-B'nai Brith has been in operation for more than 115 years, under the dedicated guidance of a knowledgeable Board of Directors which reviews all operations on a continuous basis. It has been operating at the site in Haliburton since 1944, and has been in general operation since 1909. Over its long history, the camp has operated with a philosophy of attention to the safety and well-being of its campers and staff. In order to provide a caring and safe environment, all staff are trained in emergency procedures, and applicable first-aid measures relative to their position amongst the general staff and camp needs. The camp facility and all equipment are constantly checked and maintained in order to meet the most stringent requirements of safety. The camp is an accredited member of the Ontario Camps Association, and adheres fully to all procedures recommended by the Association as best practices for a children's summer camp. The current on-site Director of the camp is Simon Wolle, who has extensive experience in Advanced Emergency Medical Care and response, policy and procedure development and staff training.

Appendix 'A' - Non-crisis complaints or concerns

Complaints or concerns that are not deemed 'Crisis' or 'Incident' and therefore would not trigger this crisis response protocol into action, should be directed to the Executive Director.

In reviewing the complaint, the Executive Director may choose to respond directly, may choose to involve additional personnel relevant to the complaint, and/or may choose to involve the Board of Directors or individual Board members as needed.

In the case of noise complaints - the Executive Director will immediately assess active noise in camp and shut down any activity creating a disturbance. Appropriate staff interviewed and consequences will follow at the earliest practical opportunity. The complaint will be noted and a response which will include a brief explanation of actions taken, will be given to the member of the public that issued the complaint. If by-law or police are involved, only the Executive Director or his designate will speak on behalf of the camp.

In the case of operational complaints (including food, medical, staff) - The supervising staff member will respond to the complaint and advise the Executive Director immediately. If authorities are involved, only the Executive Director will speak on behalf of the camp. If the complaint involves C.A.S. or Ministry of Labour, or OPP, or other regulatory authorities the Board chair will be notified at the first practical opportunity.

In the case of sewage or septic complaint - The site manager will be notified and an investigation will be initiated immediately. The camp 'Operations and Maintenance Manual' will guide decisions around abnormal incidents or occurrences. If there is a complaint that warrants follow-up or intervention, and the local relevant District manager for the Ministry of Environment and Climate Change should be contacted, this will be done by the Executive Director or his designate only (1-800-667-1940 (Highway 35 @ County Road 21)). If immediate action is required for environmental protection, the site manager will take all necessary steps to ensure compliance with Ministry Guidelines and take all practical steps to mitigate against environmental damage. The Board Chair will be consulted and advised of any complaints related to septics/sewage and appropriate Board membership involved in both responding to the complaint and remediating any issues, abnormalities, or damage that may have caused the complaint to arise. In the absence of any other guiding documented procedure, if the complaint has any potential validity, the camp will stop using the particular septic that gave rise to the complaint. The camp will cut off the water supply to the septic in question. If any breach can be identified, the maintenance team will activate breach containment efforts in consultation with Ministry officials as may be required. People on-site relying on said septic will be relocated to allow for the use of alternative septic system(s) with available capacity.
